W. F. Thompson

M. F. Thompson, South Boston, Virginia, father of Rev. W. M. Thompson, passed away in the 80th year of his age, Monday, November 14th, 1927. Funeral services were conducted from Black Walnut Baptist Church, Clustersprings, Va., Tuesday, November 15th, and the body was laid to rest beside his wife, Pamela Tindler, in the family cemetery, close beside the church.

Mr. Thompson was born in Milton, N. C., near South Boston. He was a successful farmer and business man, the father of fifteen children, eleven of whom survive him. These are: Harry W. Thompson, South Boston; Rev. W. M. Thompson, Appomattox; Frank T. Thompson, Md.; Robert E. Thompson, H. W.; John D. Thompson, N. C.; Mrs. E. Walker, Henderson, N. C.; Mrs. R. R. Odyke, Richmond, N. J.; Mrs. N. T. Scott, Fredericksburg, Va.; Mrs. L. M. Cantrell, Richmond.

Mr. Thompson was almost a life-long member of the Baptist Church and served his church in the capacity of Deacon for more than thirty years.

PATIENCE NEEDED TO HOLD THIS JOB

Washington—Airplanes being what they are, mules being mules, and grass being what it is, the problem of keeping the turf of a flying field close cropped is one of great complexity, trial and error to the ingenuity of responsible officers and the patience of grass cutters.

Rolling fields, used by army and navy flyers here, is a sizeable establishment. It is not only necessary to keep the turf in condition for planes to land or take off at any time, but to protect the conditions, who must work in the field all day, every day, with their mule-drawn mowers.

A grass-cutting machine, which has never been noted for speed or agility, can give even more damage than it receives if it comes to grips with a swiftly moving, delicately balanced airplane.

The safety problem has been attacked with flags which, fluttering brightly against the green background, from conspicuous places on the grass-cutting equipment, give warning to aviators. But the tribulations of the moving machine pilots are not so easily reduced. If so inclined, there is an opportunity to develop a philosophy of perfect patience.

Whatever their inclinations, they must at least put into practice the credo of such a philosophy. After having the parts of flying propellers or the mowing machine blades, they must move them from the field.

Just as the farmer makes his hay, they gather the short grass into windrows. But frequently, at Bolling field, these windrows, which might be a pest in a less modern environment, are in the path of an airplane, taking off or alighting, with the propeller creating a small but extremely vigorous private whirlwind. Then the raking must be done again, the windrows re-created, with hope but without certainty. Clearly, it is a job for a job.

Bus Is Favorite Ride of London Commuters

London—Lord Asquith is trying to discover why it is that women prefer buses.

He is working hard to induce people to travel on tubes and thus relieve the congestion of London streets. Men listen to the appeal for more tube travel, but women are deaf. They continue to storm crowded buses and shut out the men.

One explanation of the popularity of buses is that women are able to do a little window shopping from the top of the open buses, and do not have to make long trips.

It has been found that slightly trained business women, who are efficient office workers, patronize the underground quite generally. But housewives, waitresses and young shop assistants prefer buses.
